Introductions to people you want to meet

If you're passionate about South West Wales, and if you want to be part of what is happening to drive the region forward, becoming an Ambassador is a statement that your business or organisation wants to play a part in helping the region succeed.

With your support, we'll create a truly connected region. By working together with a shared sense of purpose, we'll make change happen for the benefit of everyone, faster and more effectively than we previously believed was possible.

We'll also help you leverage the power of our networks and connections to enable you to achieve your goals, because we know that the success of this region depends on the success of people like you.
